CORRESPONDANCE

ADRESSE

I have been here since June 15th taking the baths with the former success. The blood pressure goes down steadily and I will stay till July 10th after which we are off for a motor trip through Central France. We had a very rough passage but the Belgenland is so big, 27000 tons that it did not feel it much. We landed at Cherbourg from where we motored by way of Saint Lo to Caen stopping on the way to see several

At Caen we spent three nights visiting the neigborhood by day. We went to Falaise, the William the Conqueror town which is extremely picturesque & interesting and a good many of the little towns along the coast every one of which has either a fine church or Château or both. This Château de Creully was particularly interesting & we visited it from cellar to attic.
What with the baths & sleep in the day time & social pursuits we have no time left idle or that year than last & correspondingly happier. The cuisine is fine - too fine - for it is <sup>too</sup> ~~too~~ dangerous to get fat, but what we enjoy most is the very much more interesting company. It seems to consist of the very best society of French Belgian Scots & Russian. There are few Americans, these unfortunate Jews but lots of delightful other people. We are very chummy with a lady & her daughter who has vast possessions in
