Sept. 8, 1889.

My Dear Deane: I find that your letter of August 26 is still unacknowledged.
As a matter of fact, I have no time for letter writing often except Sundays. My gardening work, quantities of writing for the press, and the building of a house make 24 hours too few for the days.

The finishing is going on the house, and we shall get in by the last of the month.

Yes, I label each carex with a stake, and when they go into my garden, they will all be flattened.
They are all in pots now, for my premises are not yet ready to receive them. And then it usually requires two years for Carex seeds to germinate. Yet I have a few plants from the seeds of Carex trinita which you sent me. Among my interesting plants is a single specimen of Physalis from Morong's seeds, the only plant I got. This stands out of doors. It is now budded, but I fear will not bloom before frost. I have therefore taken cuttings and shall try to force it during winter.

I am much pained to hear of your father's continued illness. I am hoping for the best, but your letters do not encourage me. What is the diagnosis of the trouble?

I hope that you and Mrs. D. are well.

Yours truly,
J. H. Bailey
