My Dear Deane:

I found my friend very sick, but mending, and everything now looks like recovery. So I leave for Chicago to-night. In my anxiety, I am afraid that I did not thank you and Mrs. D. sufficiently for your many kindnesses, but I appreciate them. You made my Stay very pleasant.

I pulled up a bit of wire as I ran down town to-day and send it fresh by this mail. But I am afraid that it will not be worth much when it reaches you.

Yours very heartily,

L. N. Bailey
