My Dear Deane;

No, I don't like the obliteration of var. Deaneii, and shall not submit to it in my own writings. It is more distinct, as I see it, than some things which Britton elevates. This shows how much a matter of judgment these species and varieties are. I am aware of it in Vitis, too, which I am now monographing for Dr. Robinson. Munson sees about 23 species in North America, and Regel sees two! Expect to finish my musing up of Vitis this week. I have all the Harvard material.

Hope you are well. Love,

Thine ever,

L. H. Bailey
